

PRO-SCHOOL project successfully finished!

The project PRO-SCHOOL (Project Based School Management) funded with the support of the European Commission in the frame of Lifelong Learning Programme Comenius action and started on 1st of December 2008, will come to its end on 30th of November 2010.

PRO-SCHOOL project aimed to provide a new management methodology for school managers to improve their management skills and competences; to develop innovative methods and materials for school management; to contribute and support the implementation of in-service training methods and practices for school managers and to highlight and disseminate examples of best practices in school management across Europe.

After two years of intensive work, partner organisations would like to thank to all individuals and institutions that have helped and contributed to the successful realization of this project and also to express their trust that the outputs developed in its framework will continue to produce results in the educational and school management fields of practice.

During the implementation period, 234 school managers, 368 teachers and 343 parents from Turkey, Belgium, Czech Republic, Greece, Italy and Romania took part in the first phase of the research. Total 170 school managers and/or managerial staff participated in local trainings organized in the countries participating in the project and 20 in the international Comenius training sessions organized in Izmir, Turkey. Many more others, from all over the Europe, were informed about project activities and results.

The main outputs of PRO-SCHOOL project available to the public are:

- a research report on education systems and school effectiveness indicators in Turkey, Belgium, Czech Republic, Greece, Italy and Romania
- a methodology on Project-Based School Management;
- a training curriculum accompanied by training modules, meant to be used in trainings of school managers on project-based school management.

All materials are available in English, Turkish, Flemish, Greek, Italian, Czech and Romanian language and can be freely downloaded from the project website:
